In today's Gospel, Luke speaks of the coming of the Day of the Lord. This would be a day of judgment upon Israel and upon the world. John the Baptist invites his listeners to turn away from their sins. He did not require them to abandon their occupations. Rather, he simply asked them to exercise their responsibilities as honestly as they could.

God does not ask us to reject who we are, but rather simply asks us to be as virtuous as we possibly can be.

Yet the time had come for people to make a decision. God was going to separate the good from the evil as one separates wheat from chaff.

At the midway point of Advent, we too can ask the question the crowds put to John the Baptist. We might preface it with another question: 'What have we done thus far?' What is the Lord asking of me during the next ten days?

Do not fall into the trap of routine or busyness, without a moment each day of prayer that God's peace may reign in your heart. Our novena of preparation can consist simply by turning to the Word of God, reflecting on the mystery of Jesus' coming, and how we want Him to find us when we celebrate His birth. Then God's own peace will be really with us.
